History

Every One NHB Modern Plays was founded in 2010 by a group of theatre artists who were passionate about creating theatre that was relevant to the world around them. The company's name, "Every One NHB," reflects their belief that everyone has a story to tell and that everyone deserves to be heard.

Every One NHB Modern Plays has quickly become one of the most respected theatre companies in the country. Their work has been praised by critics and audiences alike, and they have received numerous awards, including the Tony Award for Best Play in 2017 for their production of "The Humans."

Mission

Every One NHB Modern Plays' mission is to create theatre that is relevant, challenging, and transformative. They believe that theatre has the power to change the world by opening people's minds and hearts to new ideas and perspectives.

Every One NHB Modern Plays is committed to diversity and inclusion. They believe that everyone, regardless of their race, gender, sexual orientation, or disability, should have the opportunity to participate in and enjoy theatre. The company's work reflects this commitment, and they have a long history of casting actors from diverse backgrounds.

Work

Every One NHB Modern Plays' work is known for its high quality, bold storytelling, and commitment to social and political issues. The company has produced a wide range of plays, including works by both established and emerging playwrights. Some of their most notable productions include:

- "The Humans" (2016): A Pulitzer Prize-winning play about a family gathering that is disrupted by a series of strange events.
- "Sweat" (2017): A Tony Award-nominated play about the decline of the American manufacturing industry and its impact on a small town in Pennsylvania.
- "Indecent" (2017): A Tony Award-winning play about the history of Sholem Asch's Yiddish play "God of Vengeance."

- "The Children" (2019): A Tony Award-winning play about a group of elderly Holocaust survivors who are confronted with the past when they are visited by a young German woman.

Impact

Every One NHB Modern Plays has had a significant impact on the American theatre landscape. Their work has helped to raise awareness of important social and political issues, and they have inspired other theatre companies to create work that is more relevant and inclusive.

Every One NHB Modern Plays is a vital part of the American theatre community. Their work is essential for making theatre more relevant, challenging, and transformative.
