Major chords sound happy and upbeat, while minor chords sound sad and somber. Seventh chords are a bit more complex, but they can add a lot of depth and interest to a song.

To play a chord, you need to place your fingers on the correct strings and frets. The fret is the metal bar that runs across the neck of the guitar. The string is the thin wire that runs from the nut to the bridge.

There are many different ways to finger a chord, but the most common way is to use your index, middle, and ring fingers. Your index finger should be placed on the root note of the chord, your middle finger should be placed on the third fret of the string, and your ring finger should be placed on the fifth fret of the string.

Once you have your fingers in place, you need to strum the strings. Strumming is the process of moving your hand up and down across the strings. You can strum with your fingers or with a pick.

Here is a list of easy songs with lyrics translations and guitar chords that are perfect for late elementary and intermediate students:

C, Am, F, G

Here are a few tips for learning how to play guitar:

- Start slowly and gradually increase the difficulty. Don't try to learn too much too quickly. Start with easy songs and chords, and gradually add more complex ones as you get more comfortable.
- Be patient and consistent. Learning how to play guitar takes time and practice. Don't get discouraged if you don't get it right away. Just keep practicing and you'll eventually reach your goals.
- Find a good teacher or online resource. A good teacher can help you learn the basics of guitar playing and provide you with feedback on your progress. There are also many great online resources that can help you learn how to play.

- Have fun! Learning how to play guitar should be enjoyable. If you're not having fun, you're less likely to stick with it. Find songs that you enjoy playing and make practice a part of your daily routine.

Learning how to play guitar is a rewarding experience. With a little practice, you'll be able to play your favorite songs and impress your friends and family. So what are you waiting for? Pick up a guitar and start learning today!
